

WOMAN SHOT IN NORFOLK

Gatekeeper at Railroad Crossing is Held by Police on Charge of Murder

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 13.—Mrs. J. C. Perkins, of Charlotte, N. C., was shot and killed in an automobile at a railroad crossing here early Saturday morning. Branch A. Ford, gatekeeper for the railway, has admitted to the police that he fired three shots at a passing automobile after the occupants had taken him to task for blocking the street.

A public chauffeur and two other men were passengers in the car with Mrs. Perkins when she was killed. According to the passengers, the shooting followed an argument with the gatekeeper, who is being held on the charge of murder.

HAS RESTFUL DAY

President Must Remain in Bed Until Danger of Relapse is Over

Washington, Oct. 13.—While President Wilson is relieved by his physicians to be on the road to recovery, the process will be slow and tedious. The President, it was reiterated yesterday at the White House, must resign himself to strict observance of the physicians' orders to put aside all thought of his office while convalescing and remain in bed until danger of a relapse has passed.

Rear Admiral Grayson, the President's personal physician, and the physicians he called in more than a week ago continue to confine themselves to terse bulletins twice a day, so far as the public is concerned. That they are satisfied with the progress their patient is making is apparent from the spirit of optimism that pervades the White House and the resentment with which various rumors as to the President's "real" condition are met by White House officials.

PRAYERS FOR DEAD

Deputies in P. E. Convention, After Hot Debate, Decide for Inclusion in Prayer Book

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 13.—Shall the priests of the Protestant Episcopal Church pray for the dead? And shall such a prayer be included in the prayerbook of the church? These two questions were heatedly debated at length in the closing minutes of Friday's session of the House of Deputies. In the end those who supported the inclusion of the new prayer for Memorial Day, in changes in the prayerbook, were victorious.

At no time in the convention has feeling apparently run so high. One clerical deputy, the Rev. James M. Owens, of Shreveport, La., declared that in this matter the Protestant Episcopal Church was "at the parting of the ways," and hinted that much of the fate of the church hung trembling in the balance.

Rev. Dr. George C. Foley, a professor in the Philadelphia Divinity School, raised the issue. Doctor Foley explained that it was a purely theological question and added that, to his mind, at least, it was absurd "to pray for the dead when there were no dead."

by an important group of Republican ex-Senators and ex-Congressmen, launched its second thunderbolt saying that the "closed shop" is un-American.

The labor group in the Industrial Conference has made the "closed shop" one of its fundamental demands. Yesterday's statement, which is the second within two weeks directed against organized labor yesterday, at labor, is as follows:

"The crux of the demands of the labor group as presented to the labor capital conference may be summarized as follows: The right of wage-earners to bargain collectively, through unions, represented by agents of their own choosing. It is a one-sided proposition. It speaks of the right of wage earners to bargain in a certain way by assuming that there shall be no right but the power to bargain collectively, and the form of bargaining collectively to dictate terms of employers. Their object is not bargaining, but dictation. 'The only truly American policy—the only truly democratic policy—is for wage earners to bargain collectively or individually, as they may prefer and as they may be able to bargain with employers. Whenever an employee is compelled to participate in collective bargaining against his will, his right has been taken from him and he is no longer a free man. He becomes a subject of the union and its agent, no longer free to take employment when he so desires. Whenever an employer is denied the right to bargain individually with his employees, his right has been taken from him also, and he becomes a subject of the union and its agents.

The demand of the labor unions assuming to speak for all wage earners, although authorized to speak for relatively few, is an attempt to overthrow the first principle for which our forefathers fought the American Revolution—the right to life liberty and the pursuit of happiness.
